THE SENTINEL AT NEW ORLEANS.

To accommodate the throng from the Northwest who will desire to read their favorite home paper while attending the "World's Exposition," the Sentinel has been placed on sale in New Orleans at George F.
Wharton & Bro's, No. 5 Carondelet street, between Canal and Common streets.

this office at only 40 cents per hundred.

CITY IN BRIEF.

O. H. Fairmer has been re-elected Secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

Frank L. Bingham has been appointed messenger in the Governor's office.

We call special attention to the fifth page local of the Standard Type Writer.

William Brown, colored, an incurable, was removed yesterday afternoon from the Indiana Asylum to his home in Frankfort.

There is a rumor that General McGinnis and Colonel Closser are being groomed by their respective friends for the Mayoralty race.

Lizzie Windsor, of 8 Cook street, is suffering from a broken ankle, the result of a fall from the railroad bridge over Pogue's Run near her home.

Dr. Brayton will lecture on chemistry and toxicology in the reception room of the Nurses' Home at the City Hospital this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Governor Gray has appointed Andrew J.
Egbert, of South Bend, Prosecuting Attorney for the Thirty-second Judicial Circuit, to fill the unexpired term of Hon.

George Ford, elected to Congress to fill the unexpired term of Major Calkins.

The Beach Medical Institute, of this city, in which persons are to be educated in the science of medicine, was incorporated yesterday. Capital, $25,000.

The wife of Captain Clinton, County Commissioner, died yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. Two of his daughters are lying ill with typhoid fever, not expected to live.

About the hour that Hon. Schuyler Colfax fell dead Colonel J. W. Blake received a business letter from him, the opening statement of which was that the writer was in first-class health.

The revival at Grace M. E. Church is growing in interest. The house is filled at each meeting, the sermons are powerful and a number of conversions are reported. The interest is increasing.

J. H. Holliday, A. S. White, A. M. Fletcher, A. D. Lynch, J. F. Pratt and H. P.
Whitwell will attend the National Board of Trade in Washington, beginning the 23th, as delegates from the local Board of Trade.

The balance in the State Treasury on the first day of January was $1,044,494.93. The January apportionment from school revenue for tuition to be paid is $854,206.28, which will be seen will reduce the balance very materially.

Dr. Clarke of Baltimore, is in the city for the purpose of introducing Victoria Pills.
He claims that having tried them for more than twenty years they have proved to be far the most effective family tonic pill ever used, and they are especially adapted to cure female weaknesses. Each box is accompanied by an amusing and ingenious puzzle as an advertising medium, which may be seen at all drug stores. Victoria Pills are manufactured by A. G. Meyer & Co., of Baltimore (the well known makers of Dr. Ball's Cough Syrup, etc.) which is a sufficient guarantee of their meritorious value.

AMUSEMENTS.

"MAY BLOSSOM" AT THE GRAND.

To-night and during the remainder of the week the attraction at the Grand Opera House will be the original Madison Square Theater Company in their greatest success, entitled "May Blossom," by David Belasco, Esq., author of "Hearts of Oak," "La Belle Russe," and other successful plays. It is said to be one of the prettiest and purest domestic dramas ever written, and is strong dramatically. The performances here will be exact reproductions, in every particular, of those given for six consecutive months at the famous Madison Square Theater, New York, including the entire original company, scenery and effects. The attraction of seats has been very large, insuring large and brilliant audiences. In the cast of characters we note the following strong names: "May Blossom," the fisherman's daughter, Miss Georgia Cayvan; "Steve Harland," a young fisherman, Mr. Joseph Wheelock; "Tom Blossom," father of May,
Mr. Benjamin Maginley.

"THE CRIMES OF LONDON."

"The Crimes of London," the new spectacular play, produced last season in Paladium and written by Mr. Charles DeKress, will receive its initial presentation at En-lish's Opera House to-night. "The Crimes of London" is not a Bowers play, but a strongly constructed melodrama, abounding in showy situations and full of comedy interest. Miss Maud Stuart, of this city, will appear in the cast to-night. Prices will range, ten, twenty-five, thirty-five and fifty cents. In addition, the superb military band of the organization will parade the street to-day, and give a concert to-night in front of the house.

NOTES.

Zoo in affliction to-day.
Don't forget that the Dime Museum is open at 10 in the morning and will so remain till 10 p. m.

Colonel Keys, Joe Emmet's "announcing agent," is expected in town to-day to do the "previous" for his clever star.

Miss Maud Stuart, of this city, has been specially engaged to create the part of "Nell Tatters," in "The Crimes of London," and will appear to-night.

The Adamless Eden Company have hung in the windows some of the most gorgeous lithographs ever seen in this city. The company, it is said, carry their wardrobe in a pill-box.

Edward C. Mason, Business Manager of Gill & Arthur's "Two Bad Men" company, is fairly "painting the town red" in the interest of his attraction, which he declares is the biggest "go" of anything on the road.

The last half of next week the inevitable and only Joseph K. Emmet will return to the Grand Opera House, appearing in his latest and best play, "The Strange Marriage of Fritz." This will be welcome intelligence to all classes of theater-goers.

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings and Wednesday matinee, the attraction at the Grand Opera House will be Gill & Arthur's Comedy Company in the latest farcical success, "Two Bad Men." The company, which is headed by Wm. Gill, Paul Arthur, and Miss Eleanor Dearing, is an unusually strong one. The piece is said to be equally as funny as "Bunch of Keys," "Rag Baby," or "A Farrier Match," and has met with wonderful success in other cities.
Sale of seats opens to-morrow morning.

Miss Elsie Hall, press agent of Lilly Clark's "Adamless Eden" Company, is in the city, arranging for the appearance of her company at English's Opera House on Thursday evening, January 22. The company is heralded as the most novel before the public. The performance is given entirely by ladies, including ladies' orchestra doorknockers, ushers and ticket sellers.
Wherever the company have appeared they have played to the full capacity of the house, and no doubt English's will be packed on this occasion.

A Hotel Man Missing.

Mr. Charles E. Carney, for two years behind the desk of the New-Donson, and for twelve years connected with Indianapolis hotels, has committed an act which will bring regret to his friends. Of the latter he had many, both among residents and visitors to the city who have ever treated him with courtesy, listening to his fund of anecdotes, complimenting the eloquence with which he shouts "front" and accrediting him always (when behind his back) with being a good man, worthy and well qualified.
But in the face of all these Mr. Carney has arranged to shake the dust of Indianapolis from his feet, and to to-night, leaves for Cleveland where he takes a position in the Wedell House of that city. Though preferring he should remain, he will take with him cordial well-wishes from the proprietor and guests of the Denison and a host of other friends in the city.

A REPUBLICAN TALKS

Of President Cleveland and Some Matters for Public Consideration.

Colonel John A. Bridgeland, of Richmond, Ind., who is known as a Republican for all that the term implies, stopped a Sentinel reporter in the Denison Hotel yesterday. The result of the halt was talk. Any one who ever met Colonel Bridgeland will back him, with odds, against any other living man in a talking bee. He can tackle intelligently any subject from navigating the crystal seas to pisciculture. He was, under President Grant's administration, United States Consul to Havre, France.
During the recent campaign he called on Governor Cleveland in New York, and in the conversation with the Sentinel was un-mistaken in his terms of admiration of the personal bearing of the President-elect.

"I am not one of the Republican crackers," said Colonel Bridgeland, referring to the change to occur on the 4th of March.
"We have had a panic since 1873, barring two years—1879 and 1880—and after that over production continued the panic. We are, in my opinion, at hard pan, and should President Cleveland call about him as advisers some of the men indicated by the newspapers his administration is destined to be a successful and popular one. First in this list, to my mind, is the Indiana man, of whom General Grant said to me in 1882, that he might be our next President, and if the Democratic party was to regain ascendency he hoped Joseph E. McKim might be its choice, for, said he, 'Mr. Mc-Donald is both able and honest and would make a good President.' General Grant was doubtful of the success of the Republicans in 1884 owing to the lack of harmony in the party."

"One of the good things to be hoped for from the incoming administration," said Colonel Bridgeland, "since both parties insisted upon it during the last canvass, is the re-establishment of the American navy and the building up of our mercantile marine.
The money which would be expended on this would contribute to our relief from financial difficulties. The Republican party should have done this important work, but the country has had too much land for too few people, and it has required the efforts of the best brains in it to span the continent with iron rails, and to effect other internal improvements, that have challenged the notice of other nations of the world for our progress in the last quarter of a century. The contempt of the Old World has been turned into jealousy, and in my opinion, it is our duty to increase that jealousy.
Now we want more miles of railway than all the balance of the world. But we have kept out of the 'fogwags' of the mercantile marine our young men. We now want to clear out as far as possible from our mercantile marine, as all other respectable nations have done, the English sailors who have for twenty years monopolized the merchant service not only of our own country, but of every country in the world."

Commenting on the inferiority of the United States Navy, Colonel Bridgeland mentioned an incident of his Consulship abroad, when our Government, in 1878, sent to Havre six vessels belonging to its navy with articles for the Paris Exposition.

"As the French people had such an exalted idea of everything being large and great on our side," he said, "the population of Havre turned out on the quay to receive a man-of-war from the United States, and I turned out with them. Lo! and behold, it was the little old 'Supply' that had been a transport for sixty years. When I heard the comments of the French people I sought retirement. The next morning the Journal de Havre laughed at the vessel as being very little and very old."

Referring to our foreign civil service, Colonel Bridgeland said:
"Our consular service, if properly supported by the Government by selecting practical business men and allowing them to make business transactions for shippers of American products, instead of being restricted as they now are, would find many a market for the surplus of our products. But for the consular service on the other side of the Atlantic we had best not produce any surplus."

"Governor Cleveland," Colonel Bridgeland concluded, "has a great future before him, if he has the wisdom to take advantage of the mistakes the Republican party naturally must have made."

COURT-HOUSE LOCALS.

Divorce Suits Filled and Separations Granted—Other Court Notes.

Judge Norton yesterday tried William Farmer, William Best and John O'Hara, for petit larceny, and released the last two.
Farmer was released on his personal recognizance.

John C. Mathai and others yesterday filed suit against the Sheriff, Crittenden A. Cox and others to recover $300 worth of goods sold to Cox, which were levied upon by the Sheriff. Demand is made for $100 damages.

The suit of James E. Twine vs. the Street Car Company is on trial by jury in Room 1. Mrs. Twine sued the Company last year for personal injuries, and her husband is now suing for the loss of her services.

Emma Hutchinson has sued Irving Hatchison for divorce, alleging that she was worth at the time of her marriage with defendant $600 worth of real estate and $300 in cash, which he squandered without her consent, she being a minor at the time. For two years defendant has failed to provide for Emma and her child.

Parmelia A. Belles wants a divorce from William Belles, whom she married in May, 1875. She charges William with failure to perform any of his duties toward her, and with being an habitual drunkard from Saturday night to late bed time Sunday night, and on all holidays. She says William is worth $20,000, and that she wants one-fourth for alimony. Parmelia is living at 347 North Illinois street.

Yesterday Judge Howe heard the evidence in the suit of Mary Thorn vs. Edgar Thorn and took it under advisement. The proof was on the question of cruel treatment. He also took the case of Imogene E.
Woodall vs. Aquila P. Woodall, and granted plaintiff a divorce on proof of abandonment and failure to provide. The custody of the children was awarded to the plaintiff. He refused the divorce in the suit of David vs.
Mary J. Gable.

The trial of Charles Crockett, for assault and battery on Mrs. Anna Hayden, of Coburn street, was begun in the Criminal Court yesterday before a jury. Crockett is the Pan-Handle passenger conductor who insisted upon Mrs. Hayden paying fare for her son from a point east of Greenfield to this city, about a year ago. Upon refusal he attempted to eject the lad, and thieved to a personal encounter. Hayden sued for damages and recovered judgment for $20.

The defense alleged that there was no assault and battery.

An Extensive Robbery.

Night before last Mrs. Jeffries, boarding at the Brunswick Hotel, found some thief had been in her room during her absence, and had stolen her watch, chain and ring. The watch was valued at $50, the chain at $20, and the ring at $15. The matter was kept very quiet, but last evening the police arrested Ira Miles for the theft, and looked him up at the station-house. Miles is about thirty-two years of age and has been temporarily employed at the hotel. He had borrowed the key to Mrs. Jeffries' room of the chambermaid and thus secured an entrance. After taking the property he went to Christ. Harmering, on W-st Washington street, where he pawned the watch for $4.
He also wanted to pawn the chain, but Mr.
Harmering thought it was brass and declined to take it in that way, but finally gave Miles three drinks for it. Miles is one of the boys who can not stand prosperity, and he soon became talkative, which caused Mr.
Harmering to suspect that all was not right, and he informed the police. Last night at 8 o'clock Miles was arrested at the Zoo, as above stated. He had also disposed of the ring, but claimed he did not know who got it. It will be found to-day in all probability.
Harmering had given the chain to a Vincennes road freight engineer, believing it was worthless. He gave the watch over to the officers, and will to-day secure the return of the chain.
